How did you discover that 4th grade was the grade level you love?

As any parent of a 4th grader can attest, this age is a time of remarkable growth and change. What I love about this age is that students are starting to think more abstractly and can have some surprisingly profound thoughts and insights about content. At the same time, they are still just kids who like to have fun. We do a lot of dancing, crafts and activities and to balance all the thinking we do in 4th grade. And I'm a bit of an overgrown kid myself, so it's a perfect fit for me!
